HONGKONG, JUNE 26th, 1894.

The band of the assassin had again been at work. President Carnot, whilst on his way to the theatre at Lyons, was stabbed by an Italian named Sarras, who refused to divulge his motive. Whether he was suffering from madness, or had been duped for the ghostly work by the anarchists, or was influenced by some private motive, for the present must remain a matter of conjecture.

It is not inconceivable that the assassin may be an outcome of the unfortunate differences that arose last August between the French and Italian workmen at the salt works at Alghero-Mortas. The Frenchmen, it will be remembered, took umbrage at the employment of Italians and a conflict ensued, in which there were seven killed and about thirty-five wounded before not that it must appear in the designation of the firm. This seems an equitable and common sense view to take of the law, but it is not the view of the anti-Chinese press. The San Francisco Chronicle says "It is not the way the 'Act of Congress reads, and it is much to be feared, judging from this case, that the Circuit Court of Appeals may construe away the Geary and McCrory Bills, as has occurred to antecedent Chinese legislation, even though the language of the 'law be so plain as to seem to preclude any 'necessity or even possibility of construction 'or interpretation.' Our contemporary goes on to suggest that if the Circuit Court of Appeals be right, the California delegation should move at once for an amendment to the Geary-McCrory law analogous to that which has been in force in California for many years regarding partnerships. The code of that State prescribes that every partnership transacting business in the State under a fictitious name or a designation not showing the names of the persons interested as partners in such business, must file with the clerk of the county in which its principal place of business is situated, a certificate stating the names in full of all the members of such partnership and their places of residence, and publish the same once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county. It would be interesting to see how the Chinese would fall in with a system of partnership registration such as that proposed. In Hongkong they have positioned for partnership registration in the interests of commercial morality. On the other hand, when it was sought recently to enforce a similar system in Coochin-China it was vigorously resisted and business was to some extent suspended. In California, whether the Chinese were willing to register their partnerships or not, they could not offer any effective resistance if it were declared to be the law that they should do so. It is indeed not a little curious that they should have been allowed so long to evade compliance with a requirement that is enforced in the case of American partnerships.

the military could restore quiet. Grave disturbances followed in Italy, and there was a violent outbreak of anti-French feeling.

Sarras, it is possible, may have been nursing revenge since then and waiting for what he considered a favourable opportunity to avenge either a personal grievance or a fancied national affront. The more probable supposition, however, is that the assassin is either an anarchist or a notorious hater who has chosen this desperate means of
